HE GOLD...

7 Olympic Games Events

Barcelona, 1992. It's the Olympic Summer Games, and your once in a lifetime chance to prove yourself in a world arena. You'll hear the crowd, feel the heat and experience the total rush of the ultimate competition. Break a world record. Smash an Olympic Games record. Or beat a friend. Here's the rundown:

Hammer Throw

Trajectory, speed, angle of descent, you get the idea. Don't you wish you paid attention in physics?

The hardest event. Plant the pole and time your release to clear record heights.

100 Meter Sprint

You'll need a fast start and warp speed to have a shot at the gold.

Archery

The farther you pull the bow, the harder to hold your arm steady.

200 Meter Freestyle Swimming

Bang those arms but conserve your strength to sprint for the gold.

Opening and Closing Ceremonies

Light the torch and let the Games begin. Fireworks will bring them to a close.

Springboard Diving

Four required dives and one you improvise. Scores based on difficulty, execution and entry into water.

110 Meter Hurdles

Timing your jumps is everything in this event.

Follow the Leader

On April 29 Sega lowered the suggested retail price for the Genesis to $129.99. Two days later, Nintendo responded by lowering the suggested retail price of their Super NES to Sega's old price of $149.95. Nice try, but you still can't play Sonic on a Super NES.

Sega has also reduced the suggested retail price of the Game Gear to $129.99. And by the time you read this, the newly priced Game Gear will also come bundled with Sonic The Hedgehog. But wait! There's less...

At the recent Consumer Electronic Show in Chicago, Sega announced a $99.99 Genesis system without Sonic. The Sonic-less Genesis should be available in stores by the time you read this.

Sega CD Update

It's official! Sega has announced pricing and availability of their CD-ROM drive that docks to the Genesis to provide awesome gaming capabilities. The basic unit will retail for $299.95, and will come with over $300 worth of free software. Coupled with a $99.99 Genesis, the Sega CD gives you a high-powered multi-media system, with software, all for under $400. Look for reviews of the first Sega CD titles in the next issue of SV.

The Sega CD unit will be available in selected stores in November. And look out for the stream of amazing titles that is sure to follow.

Making A Difference

Sega has funded its Youth Education and Health Foundation Charitable Trust with $3 million to address critical education and health needs of American children. Sega will contribute an additional $2 million from the sale of game cartridges. So now when you buy a Sega game, you'll not only be buying enjoyment for yourself, you'll be contributing to a worthy cause too.

90210, Too

Brian Austin Green loved his Genesis so much he bought one for Jason Priestly. Now every member of Beverly Hills 90210 has a Sega Genesis in their dressing room. (PS: Brian loves to play Sonic and all the Sega sports titles.)

Summer Fun

The Sega 16 Weeks of Summer promotion is on! Contests, giveaways, mystery vans with prizes, Sega game sampling at special events, concerts and more. Tune in to your local radio station to catch the latest information about activities in your area. See page 22 for more details.

The KIDS and Unite Concert on April 25 in Los Angeles raised over $200,000 for the Pediatric Aids Foundation. Artists who performed included Amy Grant, Richard Marx, The Smithereens, Kenny G, Luther Vandross, PM Dawn, Jodi Watley and Sharlene. Sega was the title sponsor. See Visions and Views for photos.

New Product Announcements

Sonic merchandise will start appearing on retail shelves this Fall. Look for Sonic board games and puzzles by Milton Bradley. Sonic will even be getting his own comic book from Archie Comics, and has own cartoon show. That little guy sure gets around.

Dear SV:
I'm an RPG fanatic! I play Phantasy Star 2 and 3, and Shining in the Darkness a lot. My question is, how many saves do I have before the battery in the cart runs out?

N.A.
Warwick, RI

A: With proper use, a cart battery should last about five years. Proper use means don't give it to your dog for a chew toy, or use it to stir your clam chowder. If your battery ever runs out, you can have it replaced for about twelve bucks. Call 1-800-SEGA USA for more info.

Dear SV:
I am a big fan of Sega Genesis, and I have a few questions. What are sprites? How many sprites can the Genesis handle on screen simultaneously? How many colors can it produce? How many channels of sound can the Genesis produce? What is each channel devoted to? When will auto-scaling and rotation become possible on the Genesis? When will the Sega Genesis CD player be coming out in America? How much will it cost?

D.E.
Plainfield, NJ

A: Whoa! Slow down there before you hit warp speed. A few questions, indeed. Try these answers on for size:

A sprite is just another name for a moving image. It might be a ball bouncing from one edge of the screen to the other, or a missile flying toward an enemy tank. By dressing the same sprite in different ways, it can be made to look like a different object. The Genesis can handle 80 sprites on the screen at the same time.

The Genesis can display 64 colors on the screen at one time, out of a total palette of 256.

The Genesis has a total of ten sound channels, with one dedicated to voice. The ten channels are mixed down to two stereo channels, which are output through the headphone jack.

The Genesis together with the Sega CD can produce auto scaling and rotation, as well as surround sound and faster animation. The Sega CD will be available in November this year, and will retail for $299.95. It will also come bundled with several disks worth of free software.

IN THE UNRECOGNIZABLE CODE
SEGA TRADE MARK IS ON AND CONTROL PAD

KEEP PRESSING UP ON CONTROL PAD IF WHILE
SHOWN IN STORE WINDOW, PRESS C UP DOWN IN THE SAME TIME, ALL WILL BE RECOGNIZED.

Dear SV:
What exactly does 16-bit and 8 bit and meg capacity mean?

J.G.
Farmington, NY

A: The number of bits refers to the amount of information the central processor can handle at one time. The more bits, the faster the animations and the bigger the sprites. Meg capacity refers to the amount of data that can fit on the game cartridge. Cartridge capacity is measured in megabits (or millions of bits), and can range from one or two megabits to eight megabits or more. Obviously, the greater the capacity, the "bigger" the game (more levels, more characters, more backgrounds and more sound and music). As a point of reference, Streets of Rage is on a 4-meg cartridge, while Streets of Rage II will be on a 16-meg cartridge.

Dear SV:
I've been reading a lot about Sega's new CD-ROM drive, but no one ever talks about software. What kind of titles will be available when the drive goes on sale? Will they be more expensive than game cartridges?

C.K.
San Francisco, CA

A: The good news is that the Sega CD will come bundled with over $300 worth of software, including a multimedia game, a disk with a collection of five or more Genesis hits, a CD+G disk, and an audio CD. Future titles will include more multimedia games and special CD versions of new games (Batman Returns, Young Indy). Because of the almost unlimited storage and the lower manufacturing costs, some Sega CD titles may actually cost less than the cartridge versions.

Dear SV:
In a previous issue of Sega Visions I saw you had a Sega Challenge crossword puzzle. I had fun solving that one, and I would like to try some more. Do you think you could include more puzzles in Sega Visions?

P.W.
Corpus Christi, TX

A: We've had a number of requests for more puzzles, and will be including some in future issues. Stay tuned for more info.

Dear SV:
My brother and I really enjoyed your Big Sega Brush-off contest, and we are hoping that you will have another one soon. We already have a lot of drawings ready. When can we send them?

C.J.
San Jose, CA
A: Hold on to your artwork a little longer, guys. We'll be announcing an all new Sega Brush off later this year, with more categories and more prizes than before.

Dear SV:

My question relates to all videogame systems, not just Sega's. If a majority of people are right handed, how come joysticks and controllers are always set up for left-handed use? Why aren't controllers available for people who want to use the right hand for control and the left hand for firing?

R.H.

Rocky Point, NY

A: It isn't really a question of left handed vs. right-handed, but one of preference. With a traditional control pad (like the one for the Sega Genesis), people seem to prefer firing with the right hand and maneuvering with the left. Most joysticks work the other way, with the firing buttons placed most conveniently for left handed use. If you prefer the joystick approach, you have a number of options, including Sega's Genesis (see Visions and Views last issue).

Dear SV:

I am writing to make you aware of a mistake in your Sonic maps on page 16 of the May/June issue of Sega Visions. You said that the hidden room with the tree 1. Up is in Marble Zone Act 2, when it is actually in Act 3. As a reward for pointing out this error, could you tell me what happens when you get all the Chaos Emeralds?

A.N.

Leonia, NJ

A: Let's make sure we've got this straight. You want us to reward you for pointing out that we made a mistake? And as a reward you want us to tell you what happens when you successfully complete Sonic, something only a few select individuals have experienced? How about we just thank you for writing? (You're right, we goofed — it is Act 3. We'll be more careful next time).

Dear SV:

I'm writing to tell Sega Visions readers about the Super Game Players Club (SGP) on the Prodigy service. To get to it, you "jump" to PC Club, and then go to the video games topic. From there you go to SGP, where you can find news and information about Sega and Sega products, ratings, reviews, and a game swap service.

By the way, we recently rated your mag near the top!

D.B.

Merritt Island, FL

A: Thanks for the info. By the way, what do you mean "near the top?" What do we have to do to make it all the way to the top?

SEGA ON THE CUTTING EDGE

The folks at Sega are always coming up with something to make you glad you own a Sega game system. This time they're coming up with a selection of titles and peripherals that will make you wonder how you ever got along without one. Sonic 2, Batman Returns, Sega CD, Taz-Mania, Streets of Rage II—these are just some of the Sega products that will be appearing on retail shelves between now and the end of the year.

The following pages are a first look at these new Sega products. Look for extended coverage of some of these products in future issues of Sega Visions.

Sonic The Hedgehog™ 2

Sonic's back, with more tricks, more speed, more levels, and more capacity than the original trail blazing hit. Sonic The Hedgehog 2 is twice as big as the original Sonic The Hedgehog with more new worlds to explore and new enemies to overcome. But this time Sonic has a friend to help him out — a two tailed fox called Tails, who can help him fight enemies and pick up rings.

Robotnik's back too, of course, with more of his evil contraptions and devices. We'll have to wait and see if these diabolical contraptions will be a match for Sonic's new speed and agility.

Although Sonic 2 has more detailed graphics and scenery than the original, we don't think you'll have time to stop and admire it. The action will be non-stop, and the pace will be frenetic. (For more information on Sonic The Hedgehog 2, see the interview with Sonic's creator.)

Genesis: World Wide Launch: November '92, *Sonic 2*day
Game Gear: World Wide Launch: November '92, *Sonic 2*day
Strategy Guide: World Wide Launch: December '92, *Sonic 2*day

And you thought Sonic looked good on his first adventure!

Remember, look before you leap.

You'll be able to play Sonic 2 on your Game Gear system too.

Batman™ Returns

This clown is taking down, few that is.

Take on The Penguin™ and his evil cohorts in this action adventure game, based on the movie, with multiple levels of Gotham City shadows, cathedrals and crazed circus scenes. Bat downs fire tazer guns. Mirrors distort Batman's view as The Penguin™ lifts his umbrella — and fires! Counter the flying propeller blades, knives and gaseous ice with your wrist shields and Bataring. But look out for Catwoman™, who's a truly independent thinker. She will turn against you, and then change her mind and help you out against The Penguin™ and his crew.

Genesis: Available Fall '92

Game Gear: Available Fall '92

(BATMAN and all related elements are trademarks of DC Comics, Inc.)

Pretty impressive, huh?

Keep this up and you could join a circus.

Streets of Rage™ 2

Streets of Rage is back with a vengeance. This time, Metro City is under the control of an evil drug gang, and lies in ruins. You can slug it out with Axel and Blaze, and two new fighters — a huge pro wrestler called Max, and Adam's younger brother Sammy. Multi player option lets you play against a friend, or team up to overcome Master X and the evil gang of thugs.

We can't wait to play this one. We hear it has bigger characters, smoother animations, and better sound and music than the original.

Genesis: Available Christmas '92

Slug it out with Max the huge pro wrestler.

Remember, big guys are not the only ones to look out for.

Taz-Mania™

Watch Taz's dust as he whirls through the Tasmanian Outback, taking on whirling waterspouts, slick ice, quicksand, and subterranean tunnels. A voracious appetite and an explosive temper make Taz a force to be reckoned with. Snacks like chili peppers let him breathe fire, and make it hot for his enemies. And the hungrier Taz is, the more explosive he gets in this fast blast adventure.

The game recreates the Warner Brothers style of animation with music and graphics inspired by the original TV hit. Taz comes up against the same eccentric villains he does on his TV show, including Francis X. Bushlad, Bull Gator and Axl, and the Bush Bats. True to form, Taz holds up comic signs like "Ouch!" and "Uh-oh!" when he's in trouble. If you like your adventure games with a dose of hilarity, you'll appreciate Taz's uproarious antics.

Genesis: Available Summer '92.

Game Gear: Available Fall '92.

(See extended maps elsewhere in this issue.)

It looks like Taz sees something that even he is afraid of.

This is what happens when you eat Taz and chili peppers.

Be careful Taz, don't leave that.

Taz, you might want to take it a little slower next time.

Greendog™ - The Beached Surfer Dude

Dude, why are you browsing that at your truly?

Take a fantastic romp through 12 levels of surf, sand and sun with Greendog, the ultra cool surfer dude on a truly awesome mission. It seems that one day Greendog is shreddin' on some truly killer surf when he gets pounded and loses his surfboard. When he comes to, he finds himself stuck with a cursed pendant that won't let him surf, and that makes all living creatures attack him.

The only way Greendog can slip the pendant's curse is to find the ultimate treasure, the Surfboard of the Ancients. And because he's lost his surfboard, he has to resort to his personal pedal copter, his skate board, his snorkling outfit, and his in-line skates for transportation. A bizarre assortment of crazed creatures make Greendog's journey harder - from stinging starfish and dive bombing parrots to killer clams and a berserk pirate.

Genesis: Available Fall '92

Am I like, cool or what?!

Evander Holyfield's "Real Deal" Boxing™

Each player can vary in age, height, weight, power, and speed.

Climb into the ring with Evander Holyfield, the World Heavyweight Boxing Champion. This game's unique first person perspective lets you see things from the boxer's point of view. You can see the sweat fly off your opponent as you connect.

You can fight an exhibition match as Evander Holyfield himself, or you can create your own fighter, choosing speed, stamina, power, footwork, fighting style, and favorite punch, and match him against a series of 28 challenges for the World Championship crown. As your fighter keeps winning, you can step up his training program, with a protein diet, more weights, and increased track work, until you face Evander Holyfield in the final round for the World Championship.

Genesis: Available Summer '92
Game Gear: Available Christmas '92
(See extended coverage else where in this issue).

Fight from corner to corner, circling in full 360 degree action.

See every drop of blood and sweat.

Chakan: The Forever Man™

Travel across time on the heroic, blood-stained path of adventure, with Chakan: the Forever Man. Chakan, the warrior priest, has fought - and lost - a duel with death. Stripped of his former powers, Chakan is doomed to wander until he can vanquish the cultish beasts of the dark.

A variety of weapons is at your disposal, including flaming double swords for two fisted action. Alchemy lets you create tragic doorways to move through space and time. Twelve levels of hard hitting action make this game a serious challenge.

Genesis: Available Christmas '92
Game Gear: Available Christmas '92

The first step whose ultimate goal is to die.

You'll need all at your power playing skills and Chakan's abilities to bring him to rest.

Chakan will use alchemy to open doorways, travel through space and time.

X-Men™

The #1 selling Marvel™ comic comes alive on the Sega Genesis. Choose to play as one of the four or more superpowered mutants, including Wolverine, Cyclops, Gambit and Colossus. You can play one hero throughout, or switch characters during the game. Each character has a unique set of abilities to smash through different kinds of oncoming attacks. You can even double up in two player co-op mode, and use teamwork to give the bad guys a one two punch.

But muscle alone won't do the trick. The X-Men must pick up clues, follow trails, and solve riddles to save Professor X from the malicious Magneto and his horde of henchmen.

Genesis: Available Christmas '92

Wolverine never looked so good on your television screen.

Six different houses for gamers to protect from the bad guys.

Home Alone™

The top grossing movie comes home to the Genesis and Game Gear, and extends to Kevin's entire neighborhood. Help Kevin save the neighborhood from Harry and Marv by assembling household items into weapons and booby traps. Defend six different houses from Old Victorian to Ultra Modern Ugly. But look out for hidden dangers in each of the houses, like guard dogs and breakaway floors. And to keep you on your toes, each house you visit is more dangerous than the last.

Blueprints of each house show you where to set up ambushes for best effect. The overhead view lets you go from house to house, while the side scrolling view lets you explore each house in detail. Both views let you gain points for outsmarting Harry and Marv.

Genesis: Available Fall '92

Game Gear: Available Christmas '92

Use Ariel's sounds - Flounder, Scuttle and Sebastian to clear each level.

Ariel, Disney's The Little Mermaid™

Visit the underwater kingdom of King Triton and his finny friends, and embark on this Disney inspired adventure. Choose which role to play - as Ariel, the determined little mermaid, or as Triton, the King of the Sea. Either way, you have to battle the bewitched sea creatures and defeat Ursula to save the kidnapped merpeople.

As Ariel, you can use her musical notes to overcome evil spells. Or get help from her friends, Flounder and Sebastian as you explore sunken galleons and murky caves through multiple levels of underwater adventure.

Genesis: Available Christmas '92

Game Gear: Available Christmas '92

Listen to rich vibrant Disney - style graphics and animation.

Lead King Triton to free the merpeople from the evil clutches of Ursula the Sea Witch.

As Kevin, the movie's precocious kid - here, gamers are challenged to keep their house and neighborhood safe from robbers.

TaleSpin™

Gameplay can be either Baloo or Kit, each with his own set of moves and capabilities.

Based on the top-rated Disney afternoon show, TaleSpin has you joining Kit and Baloo in their incredible round the world adventure. You can play as Kit, and squeeze into spaces too tight for Baloo, or play as Baloo, and muscle your way through the tough obstacles. Or you can play with a friend, and play both Kit and Baloo against the bad guys. Either way, you'll get to visit some of the most exciting places in the world. But watch out for Don Karnage and his Air Phanes, who are also after the lucrative flying contract that awaits the winner of this race. You might just have to thwart his evil plans by engaging in an airborne food fight.

Genesis: Available Fall '92

Game Gear: Available Christmas '92

Muscle Karnage dance and throw his jolly belly at whatever is in the way.

Play Baloo and muscle your way through obstacles too tough for Kit.

These narrow ledges don't offer much choice.

The Young Indiana Jones Chronicles™

Follow Young Indy's early adventures as a civilian hero during World War I. Help him stop an international ring of corrupt scientists from delivering superweapons technologies to German spies.

On each level, Young Indy races against time to stop a scientist from making a key weapons trade. While doing so, he has to face a formidable array of adversaries — from dangerous spiders, vermin and thugs, to scintillating shopkeepers and lethal quick sand. Young Indy fights with his two favorite weapons — his pistol and whip, but muscle power alone won't do the trick. He has to use his powers of logic and perception to overcome his enemies and succeed in his quest.

Genesis: Available Early '93

DUNGEONS & DRAGONS™ WARRIORS OF THE ETERNAL SUN™

The thrill of danger... the sweat of combat... the rush of discovery. The ultimate D&D™ game now comes to the Genesis. Create your own unique characters from seven classes, and gear them up for magic, intrigue, and combat. Use the 3-D over head view to plan your outdoor battle strategy. Use the 3-D first person perspective while engaging in hand-to-hand dungeon combat. The unique auto mapper updates your characters' dungeon progress.

If you need a little help getting through the game, the DUNGEONS & DRAGONS WARRIORS OF THE ETERNAL SUN Hint Book (sold separately) can help you get out of trouble with detailed maps and survival tips.

Genesis: Available Summer '92

SEGA CD

MULTIMEDIA ENTERTAINMENT SYSTEM FOR GENESIS

Sega CD is Sega's most significant hardware launch since the introduction of the Genesis in 1989. With a sophisticated graphic co-processor, the Sega CD can create animation effects like no other 16-bit machine. The Genesis/Sega CD combination will be the first truly affordable multimedia system for the home, and may forever change the nature of videogaming.

Sega CD at a Glance

Detailed Graphics

A CD-ROM has as much storage capacity as 500 8-meg. cartridges. This kind of storage allows games to include almost unlimited graphic detail.

Audioophile Quality Sound

The Sega CD is a high quality audio CD player with audio specs rivaling some of the best CD players. Linked to your hi-fi system, the Sega CD will provide superior game play sound as well as CD+G graphics.

Animation

Sega CD's graphics co-processor allows scaling, zooming and rotation of 3D objects at high speed.

Fast Game Action

The Sega Genesis uses a 68000 processor running at 7.5 MHz. The Sega CD has its own 68000 processor running at 12.5 MHz, which means twice the processing power compared to the Genesis on its own.

Internal RAM

Sega CD has 6 megabits of internal RAM to buffer down loads of data from the CD. For the non-technical inclined, this means fast retrieval of data from the CD.

RAM Backup

You will be able to save games in progress by using a special RAM cartridge (available as an optional extra), which plugs into the standard Genesis port. The RAM cartridge will let you save a number of games at a time.

Other CD Formats

Not only will the Sega CD be able to play standard audio CDs, it will also play the new CD+G albums, which contain both sound and graphics.

Software for the Sega CD

Three categories of games will be available for the Sega CD:

1. Multimedia Games — Games that would not be possible on conventional videogame machines, because of their increased capacity for sound, graphics and animation.

2. Enhanced Genesis Games

Standard Genesis titles that have been enhanced by the addition of digitized voice, music, video, and motion and extra levels.

The Sega CD version of Return of the Jedi includes a driving game through the streets and arenas of Gotham City.

3. Genesis Compilations — Five top Genesis titles on one CD, with no change to the game play.

The Sega CD will come bundled with over $300 worth of free software, including one Multimedia game (Sherlock Holmes Consulting Detective), one Compilation, as well as an audio CD and a CD+G (music plus graphics). In addition, you can expect twenty to forty new titles to appear within the first three months, great games like Batman Returns, Joe Montana NFL Football, Dark Wizard and Night Trap.

Most of the top game companies are already hard at work on games for Sega CD, companies like Acclaim, Electronic Arts, Tengen, Virgin, Sony, JVC, Renovation, Bignat, Sierra On Line, Spectrum Holobyte, Software Toolworks, and more.

Sega CD: Available Thanksgiving '92. BATMAN and all related elements are trademarks of DC Comics, Inc.

Watch for Dungeons & Dragons: Master of the Mysteries Keep for Sega CD from JVC.

Woody Dog from JVC will be one of the first Sega CD's available.

Cordless Elite™

The Cordless Elite's instantaneous remote control provides new game player freedom.

You no longer need to be tethered to your Genesis by a cable that never seems to be long enough. With the Cordless Elite, you can play from anywhere in the room, and not worry about anyone tripping over your cord. Also includes rapid fire, both regular and automatic.

The Cordless Elite includes a control pad (shaped just like the familiar Genesis control pad) and a receiver that attaches to the Genesis console. The receiver can support a second Cordless Elite control pad.

Genesis: Available Fall '92

Mega Fire™

The great shape and feel of the original Genesis control pad, with both rapid fire and automatic rapid fire. With automatic rapid fire, you don't even have to hold the button down to keep firing. Your enemies won't know what hit them.

Genesis: Available Fall '92

Genesis Cleaning System™

Keep cartridges as well as your Genesis system in peak condition for best performance. Just plug the cleaning unit into the Genesis to clean the game port contacts. Clean cartridge contacts by plugging cartridges into the other end of the cleaning unit.

Menacer™

The Menacer is more than just a controller — it's a remote control sharpshooter system that will turn your Genesis into a high tech shooting gallery. Three separate modules lock together for multiple play combinations.

The Menacer Master Module is the main firing component. Aim down the barrel sight for dead-eye shooting, or use the Accu Sight cursor on the screen like a laser sighting device.

The Stabilizer Module steadies the Menacer against your shoulder for full-body control. Snap it on to the Master Module like a stock for full-field sweeping action.

The Binocular Module snaps onto the Master Module for dual sighting.

The Menacer can operate from up to eight feet away, with no cables to get in the way. The Menacer system includes a game cartridge with six different shooting games.

Genesis: Available Fall '92

Super Wide Gear™

Enjoy big screen action with Game Gear convenience with the new Super Wide Gear from Sega. The Super Wide Gear clips onto your Game Gear, and stays put through even the most strenuous playing. The increased levels of magnification make the image bigger than ever. And because the magnifier is enclosed on the sides, the Game Gear graphics are even brighter. You can also use the Super Wide Gear in combination with the Game Gear TV Tuner, and watch TV on the "big screen".

Game Gear: Available Summer '92

Cleaning Gear™

Keep your Game Gear squeaky clean. Cleaning Gear cleans both the console connector and the cartridge contacts with a specially designed dual function cartridge. Includes two sets of replacement pads for both the hard wire and the software.

Sega Interview

Yuji Naka and friend

Interview with Yuji Naka: the creator of Sonic The Hedgehog

We recently had the opportunity to visit with Yuji Naka, the creator of Sonic The Hedgehog, at the Sega Technical Institute in Palo Alto, California. Naka and the original Sonic team are currently working on Sonic The Hedgehog 2, the exciting sequel planned for release later this year.

The combination of Japanese programmers and artists with local resources make the development of Sonic 2 a truly exciting American-Japanese joint effort.

SV: We understand you're busy working on Sonic The Hedgehog 2. What can you tell us about it?

NAKA: For one thing, Sonic 2 is twice the size of Sonic 1. For another, Sonic has to run through more levels...many more than in Sonic 1. Also, the new Mobius worlds are brighter, crisper, and much more detailed. However, we think players will be too busy getting through the game to spend any time enjoying the scenery. Especially since Sonic will have a new friend.

SV: A new friend?

NAKA: A fox with two tails. We call him Tails, naturally. He helps Sonic out of tight spots, and can help Sonic defeat enemies.

SV: How many people are working on Sonic 2? How does this compare with the original Sonic 1?

NAKA: A total of twelve people are working on Sonic 2. That's 30% more than worked on the original game. It's basically the same team as the original, with another programmer and more designers and artists. The original team had three artists, two game designers and three sound and music guys.

SV: Who is writing the music?

NAKA: The bass player from a famous Japanese band called Dream Come True wrote the original music for the game. The other two guys worked on the sound effects and on converting the music to a video game format. The same guys are working on the music for Sonic 2.

SV: What were some of the things you thought about when you first created the Sonic character?

NAKA: At first we used a character that looked like a rabbit with ears that could extend and pick up objects. As the game got faster and faster, we needed to come up with a special character 'istic to give our character some power over his enemies. I remembered a character I had thought about years ago who could roll himself into a ball and slam into enemies. Hedgehogs can roll themselves into a ball, so we decided to go from a rabbit to a hedgehog.

SV: How about the name Sonic?

NAKA: Because our new character could move really fast on the screen we were looking for a name that suggested speed. One of the designers said "Supersonic" and the "Sonic" part stuck.

SV: Where did the other characters in the game come from?

NAKA: We wanted one of the characters in the game to be egg shaped, so we created Robotnik. It was a great character, but since it couldn't be the main character, we made him the bad guy.

SV: What were some of your previous games?

NAKA: Ghosts & Ghosts, Fantasy Star I & II and Super Thunder Bolt for the Genesis. For the Master System I did Phantasy Star I, Space Harrier, Outrun, Blackbelt, Spy Vs Spy, F-16 Fighting Falcon, and Great Baseball.

SV: How and when did you get started creating video games?

NAKA: I joined Sega in 1984, after I finished school.

SV: Were you programming games in school?

NAKA: I had a part time job programming games while I was in school. I worked on Fujitsu and Sharp computers. I joined Sega in Japan and then came to America last year.

SV: What is your on going philosophy about creating video games?

NAKA: I want to make interesting games. I want to show my dreams and visions to kids. But most important, I want to create something that will make the player happy. I want the player to be surprised and have fun.

SV: Do you have any advice for people who want to create video games?

NAKA: Yes. Play lots of games. Not just play them to win, but think about them critically and analyze their strengths and weaknesses, constantly looking for ways to improve them. They should also draw on their own experiences for inspiration. Everything I do in my daily life, I think about how it would fit into a game. ✓

SONIC 2 THE HEDGEHUG

CD: The increased capacity of the Sega CD version will allow additional zones, as well as special bonus rounds between zones. In these bonus rounds, Sonic takes you on a first person roller coaster ride, a half pipe maze complete with enemies, traps and dead ends. You control Sonic as he tries to get through the maze, and you go with him as he takes on those 360 degree loops and 90 degree turns.

And that's just between the zones. All versions of Sonic 2 will have new zones, with new tricks, new enemies, and new challenges. Wait till you try the new Green Hill Zone, the new Metropolis Zone, or the Chemical Factory. Or Death Egg, where you get to visit Robotnik's ship.

The Hill Top Zone will take Sonic to new heights.

The Chemical Factory Zone is the acid test of Sonic's prowess.

The New Green Hill Zone is even bigger and more challenging than the original.

The Green Hill Zone has Sonic and his friend running through corkscrews and other strange structures.

OLYMPIC GOLD

This summer, millions of people around the world watched in awe as athletes competed in the 1992 Summer Olympics.

Go for the gold

While only the world's best could compete in Barcelona, gamers all over the world will be able to share the excitement and the challenge by playing BARCELONA '92 Olympic Gold, the only officially licensed video game based on the Summer Olympics. Now you can watch the Olympics in Spain, but compete in them anytime, anywhere.

Each event features a different type of action, combined with brightly colored detailed graphics. Whether you play the 16-bit Genesis or Game Gear version, you'll have fun meeting the Olympic challenge.

LIGHTING THE OLYMPIC FLAME - GETTING STARTED

Compete against up to three other opponents or represent your country against computer-generated athletes. To make the game truly multinational, BARCELONA '92 gives you the option of playing the game in your country's native language. (Choose from English, French, German, Italian, Spanish, Swedish, Japanese or Portuguese.) Next, choose the level of competition. To become acquainted with the various events, begin with the Training Session. Select the Mini Olympics option if you want to compete in specific events, or the Full Olympics option for all seven events.

MAKE THE COMPETITION EAT DUST - THE 100 METER SPRINT

In this event, obtaining a fast start and maintaining a constant pace are the keys to success. Saving a final burst of energy as you approach the finish line is also helpful. The 100 Meter Sprint is the easiest in this game, but it takes fast reflexes. When the starter gun is fired, press 'A' then 'B' repeatedly (Genesis) or the '1' then '2' button (Game Gear). How fast you press this button combination directly influ-

JUMP FOR THE MEDAL - THE 110 METER HURDLE

Use the same running techniques as in the 100 Meter Sprint, but now you must learn exactly when to start your jump in order to clear each hurdle. (This depends on your running speed.) Press 'C'

Use the tracing mode to determine the best time to start your jump when approaching a hurdle. You'll lose valuable time if you jump into hurdles.

to jump in the Genesis version, and the Right arrow in the Game Gear version. Hurdles are equally spaced, so you can develop a pattern when running. An ideal time for this event is 12.5 seconds.

key to The Pole Vault is a fast approach to the bar, followed by precise manipulation of the controller to plant the pole for a successful jump. Each athlete is given three attempts to clear a specific bar height. To be a strong competitor for the Gold Medal, the bar height to clear is 6 meters.

Use the 'A' and 'B' buttons (the '1' and '2' buttons on Game Gear) to make your approach to the bar. Press the Down arrow to plant your pole, then press the Up arrow at just the right time to clear the bar. Don't forget to release the pole by pressing the 'C' button (on the Genesis).

THE ARCHERY COMPETITION

You have one minute to shoot six arrows and obtain the highest point score. This event offers three different views of the archer. The wide view provides you with an overview and the wind direction. Press the 'C' button (Genesis) or the '2' button (Game Gear) to obtain a close-up view of the archer and determine the ten-son you desire to put on the bow. Pressing the same button again offers a view of the target. This is where you aim the bow using the directional arrows and the view finder on the bow. When the view finder is lined up with the center of the target, press the 'C' button (Genesis) or the '1' button (Game Gear) to shoot the arrow.

The points are totalled after

Change the tension of the bow by using the left and right arrows on the controller. Press any button to switch to the aiming mode. Don't spend too much time controlling the tension, since you only have 60 seconds to shoot six arrows.

all six arrows are shot. Each competitor has three rounds to earn the highest possible score. (57 points should earn you a Gold Medal). Remember, don't spend too much time determining the tension of the bow or your aim, because you only have ten seconds to shoot each arrow.

IT'S HAMMER TIME! - HAMMER THROW

This event measures the distance you can throw a hammer. You'll have a total of three throws (one per round)

In the Hammer throwing event, get your athlete moving as fast as possible. If you wait too long before throwing the hammer, you'll get dizzy and slow down. After exactly three spins, throw the hammer into the air.

to achieve the farthest distance. Press the buttons on the controller to obtain the maximum spin, then release the hammer at the appropriate time. (Don't spin more than ten times when building up speed, or you will be penalized.) Being able to build up speed quickly is the key to winning the Gold Medal. (Try for 85 meters.)

3 METER SPRINGBOARD DIVING

The diving event lets you choose from several types of

After you ascend a dive, the best way to learn it is to choose the demo mode and determine the best controller buttons and arrows to press. Your timing and ability to release the demo dive is vital.

dives and combinations, each with its own level of difficulty and possible score. Dives are scored on the basis of timing, style and entry into the water. After five dives, the highest and lowest scores are discarded and the remaining scores are added together and multiplied by the difficulty level given to the dive.

While the dive is in process, press the 'A'/'1' button to execute a Pike, the 'B'/'2' button for a twist or the 'Up' arrow to straighten your body before hitting the water. Use the diving board as a spring board to lift you into the air, giving you more time to execute complex dives. (Achieving height is important.)

To earn the highest possible score in this event, you have to perform the dive you select before attempting the dive, it's a good idea to watch a demonstration of it. Use the demonstration to plan your timing and movements. Earning 400 points won't be easy, but it should earn you a medal.

200 METER SWIMMING COMPETITION

Like the 100 Meter Sprint, this event is relatively easy, but you will need to maintain a constant pace throughout the race. Two hundred meters is equivalent to four laps. Can you beat the competition in less than 1:43 minutes? Having a fast start is helpful, but having an extra energy reserve near the finish line could help you win the race. When approaching the finish line, press the 'C' button on the Genesis (Right arrow on Game Gear) for the final stretch. During the actual race, pressing the directional arrows will slow you down.

THE CLOSING CEREMONY

awarded and the national anthem of the Gold Medal winner is played. Throughout the game, the Medal Table will keep track of the total number of Medals and points awarded to each country.

THE COMPETITION IS ALWAYS DIFFERENT

BARCELONA '92 Olympic Gold is an excellent one player or game, because each event offers a unique set of challenges requiring a variety of skill levels. For a truly challenging experience, try playing against two or more competitors. This puts each player against the computer and one or more human opponents. While the game is action packed, the game play is based primarily on each player's fast reflexes, not on their knowledge of the real life sport (as is the case with many sports simulation games, such as Joe Montana II: Sports Talk Football, where a working knowledge of football is as vital as the players' ability to manipulate the controller quickly).

The differences between the Genesis and Game Gear versions of BARCELONA '92 Olympic Gold are small, which means you can experience the same level of challenge at home or on the road. ✓

Back from the net too fast and you'll miss the love court return. Here the player has been caught too deep in his own court. Bad news!

Serve Up Some Lightning

If you want to win at Wimbledon, you'll have to spend some time practicing in Free Match Mode. The controls are pure simplicity. Button 1 to serve or volley a low, fast ball. Button 2 to serve or volley a high, lob shot. Press down on the D Button and you'll even dribble the ball before you serve. (This move makes you look good!) The key to making a solid serve is timing. Press the button once to toss the ball and press it again to serve. If you wait, you'll get a fault. Double fault and it will be Love-15. Not good!

Many Happy Returns

After the serve comes the volley. Any good player is going to try to hit the ball where you are not. So to make a good return, you have to move to where you think the ball will be. The D-Button moves you faster than you might think, especially on the clay court. It's easy to overshoot and run past the ball. A clue to where the ball will be is to watch the shadow. Get to a high, lobbing return and you can smash it deep into the back court.

EVANDER HOLYFIELD: FACE-TO-FACE OUTSIDE THE RING

Evander Holyfield currently reigns as The Undisputed Heavyweight Champion of the World, and in his corner is Sega of America with the hot new Genesis game title, Evander Holyfield's "Real Deal" Boxing.

Born on October 19, 1962, he's 6'2" and weighs approximately 235 pounds. In a recent interview Holyfield described to SEGA VISIONS how proud he is to be the star of his own video game.

SV: Why did you dedicate your heavyweight title to the children of the world?

HOLYFIELD: I dedicated my title as proof to all of them that with hard work and dedication they can succeed at whatever they choose to do in life. Leading up to my becoming the Heavyweight Champ, I set up a long series of goals for myself. As a child, I wanted to be the Boy's Club champion and then I wanted to win the State Championship. I later worked to become the National Champion, and then I wanted to join the U.S. Olympic team. From that point, I turned professional and kept working toward my ultimate goal.

SV: What is your typical training schedule?

HOLYFIELD: I usually work out three times per day. In the morning I do the boxing workout. I spar, hit the heavy bag and skip rope. In the afternoon, I do a conditioning workout, which includes running and other cardiovascular exercises. In the evening I follow up with weight training. I don't have a special diet, but I have my vitamin supplements and I don't eat too much red meat.

SV: When you're in the ring fighting, what goes through your mind?

HOLYFIELD: I ask myself if I'm ready. I go through a checklist in my mind, and think about whether or not I did all of the things my coach asked. I go into the ring knowing I did everything I could to prepare, and that gives me a certain confidence factor. I also build up my confidence by thinking about all of the tough fighters I have beaten in the past. Like a pilot before a flight, I have my own pre-fight checklist, then in the ring, I put forth an honest effort.

SV: What was the most difficult fight you ever had?

HOLYFIELD: On July 20, 1986 against Dwight Qawi in Atlanta. It was for the WBA Junior Heavyweight Title. The fight went fifteen rounds. It was a very hard fight because the pace was hectic. It was my first championship fight and the first time I ever went fifteen rounds.

SV: As a boxer, what is your strongest asset?

HOLYFIELD: I think my spiritual belief is my most important asset. Also, my ability to think is more important than my quickness or punching power. There is always going to be someone who will be faster or who will hit harder, but overall, my thinking ability is what brings everything together. I also believe that it's not the size of the man, but the size of his heart that matters.

SV: Outside of the ring, are you friendly with the other boxers?

HOLYFIELD: Sure. It's like two people who are trying to get the same job or the same promotion. You're both going to work as hard as you can. In the ring, it's all part of the business.

SV: What are your ultimate goals?

HOLYFIELD: I want to make a difference in people's lives. I have reached my goal to be The Heavyweight Champ of the World, and I want to teach other people how to reach their goals through hard work and dedication.

SV: Has the recent situation with Mike Tyson hurt the reputation of all boxers or the overall sport?

HOLYFIELD: Not at all. I truly believe that as individuals we make our own decisions. What we choose to do in our private lives has no impact on who we are professionally. If Mike was a doctor, his actions would not affect all doctors. Because one person in the sport has personal problems, it has no impact on other boxers.

SV: When you're not training, what do you enjoy doing?

for the knock out! In between rounds, each fighter's energy is replenished (based on their score.) Thus, the tables could be turned in the following round if you don't act.

The Round One Bell Rings!

Between rounds, you can check how the judges are scoring. But, you may not want to leave your corner if you're getting creamed.

A fight consists of three 3-minute rounds. (Of course, a knock out ends the fight immediately.) While fighting, keep an eye on your enemy meter, as well as the energy meter of your opponent. Find your opponent's weakness and exploit it. (Using a controller with Turbo mode will allow you to throw punches quickly.)

Notice the head and chest icons found below the boxing ring. As you or your opponent are hit, these icons turn grey. When either of your character's two icons are totally grey, you're history. If you get knocked down, keep pressing the 'A' button rapidly to regain your strength. If you can get your energy level high enough, the fight will continue.

Before entering the ring, try to use the energy meters during the training session to make yourself more powerful than your next opponent. When each round actually begins, try to go on the offense immediately and decrease your opponent's energy meter. Having the upper hand early on makes winning each round easier. If you're getting hit too often, back away momentarily to regain your strength.

You'll know you're in good shape when you see blood mixed with sweat flying from your opponent's face as you deliver punches. If you discover a punch combination which is especially effective against an opponent, continue to use it to drain the opponent's energy.

Try to get inside on Evander and you stand a chance at beating the champ. But, he'll put you on the canvas, if he sees any opening in your defense.

There is a mix-match: the underdog can beat the favorite.

Non-stop One or Two Player Fun

Evander Holyfield's 'Real Deal' Boxing is a highly detailed one or two player (simultaneous action) game on the Genesis. Whether you play alone or against the computer's many different opponents, this game offers long lasting playability.

HOLYFIELD: I like bowling and dancing, I'm a people person. I love spending time with my four children and working with kids in general. I try to teach my kids to be the best that they can be.

Anyone can be a boxer, but you have to work hard to be The Heavyweight Champion of the World. My kids have seen what I do to be the best, and they understand what's involved in achieving their own goals.

SV: How do you feel about having a video game based on your career?

HOLYFIELD: I feel honored because it tells me that others believe I have done a good job and feel that I am a good role model. A lot of young people will be buying this game and it is an opportunity for me to get my message about success out to people. Before they started programming the game, the people at Sega asked me a lot of questions to insure that the game would be realistic. I think they did a wonderful job, and I believe Evander Holyfield's 'Real Deal' Boxing is the most realistic boxing video game ever created. My kids love playing video games and sometimes I play with them.

In June 1988 Holyfield entered the Heavyweight Division. Since then, he has beaten such boxing greats as James "Buster" Douglas, George Foreman and Bert Cooper. Now video gamers can experience the thrill of being in the ring with Holyfield in Evander Holyfield's 'Real Deal' Boxing.

DAVID ROBINSON'S SUPREME COURT™

GENESIS

It's center court at Sega Sports Central. The crowd falls silent at the tip. You grab the ball, rocket down center court and score the first points with a reverse slam dunk that brings the crowd to its feet.

Nothing happens from outside the three-point zone gives you extra points. Let your hottest shooters go to work!

Every move in this realistic simulation has been digitized from live footage of the best pros in the business. The action is so real and true to life that you'll swear you're seven feet tall with size 14 high tops!

David Robinson's Supreme

Shooting under the net usually results in a spectacular slam dunk. Awesome!

The end of a successful pass-and-go is a nice lay-up and two points. Use your passing wisely.

Court lets you play basketball your way. You can even role play and take on David "The Adonis" Robinson himself in the all star game of the century.

The Best Defense

Picking teams and players is easy. Each has listed strengths and weaknesses to help you decide. But while you can match your opponent shot for shot, the secret to winning at David Robinson's Supreme Court is keeping a strong defense.

When you play against the computer you select the Center first. The rest are chosen for you automatically to match the players on the other team. You'll know how your defense is by the end of the first quarter. If you're being hammered in the backcourt, call a time out when you have the ball and move your guards to cover different players. You can even double up on a real hot shooter to take the fire out of his moves.

You can use your opponent's time outs to keep your team fresh. In the time-out screen you can see the condition of your players. If they're standing, they're ready to go. If they're breathing hard, they're getting tired. A player with both hands on his knees is exhausted and should be rotated with a man from the bench. Exhausted players can't guard or run very well and will cost you baskets.

Whoe'llin' and Stealin'

When your opponent has the ball, you automatically go into defensive mode. Now your guards can block passes and shots. And if you're fast on your feet, you can steal the ball and drive for the hoop. The more you control the ball, the better your chances of winning.

The Adonis (under the white arrow) has done pretty well from his man. And now? It's going to cost her team three points!

Keep a man deep in your opponent's court to catch long passes. You'll score with no interference from their defense.

Screen Flip

When the players reach center court, you'll notice that the screen view changes. When this happens, players that were running toward you now appear to be running away. This phenomenon allows you to control play across each half of the court by changing your view of the game.

Break away from the pack and a wild, magnificent dunk that no Genesis game has ever done it will be yours!

If you're a fan of the hoop, just slam this gem into your Genesis and get ready for the basketball game of your life. ✓

Slammin' And Jammin' with David Robinson's Supreme Court

GAME GEAR

Think David Robinson's Supreme Court stands tall on the big screen?

Just wait until you try it on your Game Gear. Only Sega could take five complete teams of seven-foot tall hoop stars and put 'em inside a Game Gear cart. Now you can have your basketball to go—anytime, anywhere.

David Robinson's Supreme Court for Game Gear gives you all the fun, excitement and realistic action of the Genesis version in the smaller screen format. Every move you see on the screen, from a tomahawk slam to a reverse flying dunk, has been digitized from footage of basketball's greatest stars.

Taking Sides

From the Options screen you can play a two-on-two, three-on-three or five-on-five game. There is an Easy and a Pro difficulty level. Play against the computer, or against a friend with another cart and a Gear-to-Gear cable. And, like the Genesis version, you can play against David "The Admiral" Robinson himself!

Here's an example of poor defense by the blue team. Keep your men covered and under the net to block shots or scoring attempts.

Pass and Go

David Robinson's Supreme Court for Game Gear is one of the most controllable hoop video games we've ever played. The CPU takes care of the mundane chores so you can concentrate on passing, shooting and scoring on offense and blocking and stealing on defense.

You pass the ball by pressing Button 1. The ball will go to the player with the green arrow pointing up. Passing cross-court as you get past the center line will make CPU players shift to redeploy defense in their key. If you move fast in this "pass" in the action, you can often get in and score before your opponent is ready.

toward the hoop. Hold it down for a jump shot. This technique will usually get you over the defense for two points. Keep your hottest shooters banging away outside the three-point zone for those three pointers.

On defense, the arrow points down on your man closest to the ball. Button 1 blocks. Hit Button 2 to attempt a steal. Try to keep a man under your basket. Some CPU teams will pass repeatedly in your backcourt before trying to score. You want to be ready to block a drive to your hoop...or to pick up a rebound and catch your opponents off guard.

If you're a basketball fan, then David Robinson's Supreme Court for both the Genesis and Game Gear systems are for you. They'll get you slammin' and jammin' in style. V

It's time to slip on the gloves and step into the ring with one of the greatest fighters in the history of professional boxing. George Foreman's KO Boxing by Flying Edge gives you the punches, power and moves of George Foreman on your Game Gear.

A right hook can knock the wind out of you... a good punch for close-in slugging.

That hard-held knockout puts you in the ring against four true contenders, in a series of ten-round matches. With another cart and a Gear-to-Gear cable, you have the option of boxing a friend—either George or another heavy hitter. If you win all four matches, you become the new World Champion. Lose to the same opponent twice and you taste the agony of defeat.

The Best Slugfest Ever

George Foreman's KO Boxing is true to form and about as real as simulated boxing can get. Mastering the various punching is easy. Button 1 for the Left and Button 2 for the Right. You can jab and hook, uppercut, block punches, duck and sway back. The true test of your talent comes in combining various combinations of punches and moves to out-box your opponents. All have different strengths and weaknesses. And all are real bruisers.

Try to save your Superpunches for when they can do the most damage to your opponent's stamina meter. There's a row on their meter to nothing, giving you a K.O.

GEORGE FOREMAN'S KO BOXING™

You can punch to the head and body. A good combination to wear down your opponent is to jab left twice to the head, followed by an uppercut. Get the timing right and you'll see the effect on your opponent's stamina meter. On iron-jawed boxes, you have to punch to the body. Punch left, right, left, right, and be ready to duck. No one combination works every time. Whichever way you decide to attack, remember that each round is over two minutes long. It takes some fast and furious button pressing to make it through the round a winner. Pressing the Start Button will pause the game. Use it when ever your fingers get numb or your hand begins to get tired. Press Start again and you are back in the fight.

What we like to see is the opponent down for the count! Looks like a K.O. for George!

Last issue of Visions we showed maps of some of the early levels of Kid Chameleon, the hot new Genesis title from Sega. Kid Chameleon is such a big game — big in graphics, big in depth, and big in gameplay — that we decided to run a few more pages of maps.

In The Lion's Den, you'll only get through it you keep tossing a steady stream of hatchets at the lions you meet. And this level is swarming with 'em.

Taz-Mania, the Warner Brothers cartoon superstar, is venturing into new territory—the world of Genesis video games. In an all new action/adventure title that's sure to tickle your funny bone. Help Taz (a Tasmanian Devil, of course) find the elusive Tasmanian Seabird egg so he can feed his family. This hilarious journey will take you through scorching deserts, an abandoned mine, and a toy factory that produces toys of destruction.

The voracious and foul-tempered Taz is certainly a force to be reckoned with. Given half a chance, he will devour everything in sight, even if it is likely to result in serious indigestion or worse. But sometimes his dining habits can help him out of tight spots, such as when he eats those red-hot chili peppers and breathes fire on his enemies.

Taz has a lot more tricks up his sleeve (or whatever...). Here are six pages of maps and hints for everyone's favorite cantankerous old devil.

Ugh! Me should'a ducked that time!

If you have to jump a great distance, try this trick. First, get a running start, then jump at the last possible moment. In the middle of the jump, start spinning and you'll fly across most obstacles. This works especially at the end of the first level—jump on the first geyser then jump and spin your way to the exit!

Throughout this entire level there are levers that you can pull in order to continue on without taking any damage. Here are the maps to the first two switches. Hope they help.

Here's where the second switch is. But, when you get there, there's a choice—should you throw the one on the left or the one on the right? Okay give up yet? It's the one on the right.

In the mine, be sure to pay attention to the signs when they tell you to go up or down. If not, you'll get squashed. When you have to make a jump, speed up if the light is green, slow down if the light is yellow.

Throughout this level, you can either jump from island to island or catch a ride on a floating log. But, be careful, Taz can't swim at all.

On the islands, there's all kinds of good and bad things for Taz to eat—especially his own framed portrait. And as usual, there's always something out to get him, so watch out for the Taz-eating plants.

At this place, the distance between islands is too great to just catch a log and float downriver before

At some spots, it's too far for Taz to jump along the river. Here, you'll have to ride a log. But, guess what? As soon as you land, the log starts to sink. So, start looking for a place to jump to as soon as you land.

your log sinks. To land on the ledge, you'll have to jump and spin while pressing up on the D-button.

At this level, you're almost to the island where the Tasmanian Seabird lives. But first you'll have to make it to the Firebreathing Temple's inner chamber. There you'll meet a statue of none other than—guess who. Yes, Taz himself. Hint: when you meet a difficult character like Taz—spin, spin, spin. Also, watch out for natives, statues that breathe fire, and bats.

You'll probably need to eat something along the way too. But, this level is really hot in more ways than one. So, watch out what you eat. Even though that'll be pretty difficult with a voracious, eat any and everything in sight, Taz.

This is it! You've finally made it to the level where the Seabird egg is. As usual, you'll have to outsmart a few dangerous Taz-bashing creatures—especially momma Seabird. Watch out for wings that seem to come from everywhere. And of course, there's a big surprise ending. But, we're not even going to give you a hint on that one.

AYRTON SENNA'S

SUPER Monaco GP II™

It's the race of your dreams — the Grand Prix World Championship — and you have the pole position.

Ahead is a treacherous course full of twists and turns, where racers will be attaining speeds of over 200 miles per hour. Following you is a pack of drivers hungry for victory. Where are you? At home playing Ayrton Senna's Super Monaco GP II on your Genesis!

When approaching a hairpin turn, brake just before the turn begins, then hug the inner track and power the gas to make it through!

The brains behind the game is internationally renowned Ayrton Senna, 1991 Formula 1 World Champion. Sega drew upon his knowledge of the best Grand Prix race cars, and created a game that literally puts you in the cockpit.

You have a number of options at your disposal. In addition to the "pre-race" options (such as setting the control pad brake and accelerator), you can choose to race either with an automatic transmission, or a manual transmission with four or seven speeds.

Avoid collisions with other cars on the track. While they will not usually wreck your car, the recovery time will allow other cars get in front of you. And slower!

Pick your path to Fame

The best way to become an expert is to use the Free Practice mode, which gives you information and lets you practice on the game's sixteen courses. Then it's on to the big time.

You have two ways to become famous in the international driving circuit. The Senna G.P. mode puts you in competition on courses designed by Senna himself. It's the toughest mode in the game, since you cannot practice on the course before you drive your preliminary race. To advance in the Senna G.P., you must finish in the top three positions. The trick to winning is to run the course fast enough in the preliminaries thereby getting a starting place high in the grid, and holding that place throughout the race.

The World Championship mode puts you on the G.P. circuit. After practicing the course, you take a warm up lap to establish your position. Finish in the top three spots and you get a certain number of points, which establishes your rank in the World Championships. You can save your rank and continue with your racing career later, which means you can break for the fastest way to go, especially when you use all seven speeds. In some races you can shift gears over a hundred times.

Practice the course in the World Championship mode until you can beat the best time displayed in the upper left corner of the screen. Remember you will have to do even better to get a good spot in the starting grid.

Keep the car on the track as much as possible. Four lap times will suffer if you keep getting on the shoulder, resulting in a bad spot in the starting grid.

dinner, school and Phantasy Star III. Not bad, huh?

To Shift or Not to Shift

The fastest way to get into the game is with the automatic transmission. Shifting manually is a little tricky, although in the long run it's Automatic lets you work the accelerator and brake while the car does the shifting. You can downshift manually, and then let your car shift into the higher gears as you gain speed. With automatic you can drive more strategically, while manual shifting gives you an edge in speed. You can win races either way. The choice is yours.

If you have an urge to control the uncontrollable, to take pure, unleashed power in your hands and become a Grand Prix champion, then take Ayrton Senna's Super Monaco G.P. II for a drive on your Genesis System. ▼

WARNING: In this game you will see thousands of incredibly mindless, purple-haired rodents march off cliffs into pits of fire, bottomless lakes and flaming gates...unless you provide Lemming aid! The Lemmings in the game are migrating through a giant maze and they need your help to make it through. Although you can't act on the Lemmings directly, you can assign them special attributes, which affect the way they behave.

The Builder Lemmings to get over high spots in the act. Have you have two Builders...just enough!

Lemmings by Sunsoft is big, big fun. 180 levels full of obstacles that will test even the most warped puzzle gamer's mind. Fuzzy, mindless rodents. Awesome colors, graphics and sound. And a password feature that lets you access any previously achieved levels. There's even a twenty level, two player mode that really adds to the fun! This is a game you won't want to miss.

The object of Lemmings is to get the vermin from the start to the end of each maze level. Each level is timed and in each you must rescue a certain percentage of the Lemmings to continue. The game has several levels of diffculty, from easy to extremely frustrating. The two player mode is almost a combat to save the Lemmings. The object here is to block the other player's exit, getting the Lemmings safely through your exit.

Diggers take you through obstacles at a slight downward angle.

Builders bridge gaps for all Lemmings to cross. Once a builder is finished, it will convert back to normal Lemming.

Exploding Lemmings

Lemmings start out in life with but a single attribute...they just keep moving in one direction until they meet an obstacle, at which point they turn around and go back the other way. If you want them to do anything else, you have to assign them special attributes, which modify their behavior. You can turn Lemmings into Climbers, who scale vertical heights, Miners, who dig at an angle, or Bombers, who count to five, cover their head and explode!

Not all attributes are available in every level, so you must plan carefully to get the critters to the exit.

You pick attributes from the set of icons at the bottom of the screen. Selecting the set of Lemming tracks (Pews, get it?) stops the game so you can view the maze and decide on your strategy. The Lemmings begin by walking to the right. They'll keep going until they reach an obstacle. Then they walk left. If they encounter a cliff, they walk over. The easiest way to stop Lemmings from going somewhere is with a Blocker. Like a traffic cop, Blockers act as barriers the other Lemmings can't get around. Once selected, Blockers never move.

Use Blockers to keep your Lemmings from going over the edge. Like traffic cops, they control the crowd.

To get your Lemmings across a gap, you can turn some of them into Builders. Builders construct bridges across gaps in an upward direction. Builders dig into whatever is directly in front of them when selected. They are great for making tunnels. You can tunnel under traps by making a miner, then turning it into a basher. Combinations like this are often the best way to get through a complicated level. Some call for split second timing. A hole in the wrong spot could let all your Lemmings fall to their doom.

A Basher Lemming here just cleared a straight path through a wall. Almost nothing stands in their way.

Whether you're a new gamer or a seasoned pro, Lemmings will get into your blood. V

"EAT MY SHORTS, MANI!"

There's only one bad boy who can say that to your face and get away with it. It's Bart Simpson! He's ready to put your Genesis System to the test in Bart vs. The Space Mutants, from Flying Edge.

The hovering red rings will bash your life away. Dodge 'em, jump on people's heads to get the help.

In this action game you hop into the smelly hightops of the Berman himself to save the planet from a bunch of totally gross mutants who are disguised as humans. But you have X-Ray Specs which help you to see who really is a mutant. This adventure will take you from downtown Springfield to the glowing halls of the Springfield Nuclear Power Plant, foiling the mutants' plans along the way.

You have to be level with the ballzies to shoot them down. Don't waste your shotgun ammo.

Mutant Machinery

The mutants are building a machine to take over the planet. The object of the game is to capture, destroy or otherwise change the items the mutants need. The objects range from anything purple in Round One to nuclear power rods in Round Five.

THE SIMPSONS™ BART VS. THE SPACE MUTANTS

Tough Times for the Berman

Bart vs. The Space Mutants is more tricky than it seems. The key to collecting all the items in each round is to try everything. Some objects you can spraypaint. Others you can blow up, like the purple bowl ing sign in Round One. Hats, balloons and nuclear power rods can be collected. Exit games must be shot.

That's hard enough. At the same time, you have to spot mutants and jump on their heads to get coins and "proof" that they really exist. Coins can be used to buy things like rockets and to play the carnival games in Round Three. You need proof if you want your family to help you.

Get all the items and you head into an obstacle course. Here, split-second timing is the only way you can make it through. If the distance of a jump seems impossible to make, try hitting Button B then Button A along with the D Button. You'll jump farther.

Going for a hat while the shops are rolling is a risky move that most likely will cost you a life. Not cool, man!

At the end of each round you battle one of Bart's worst enemies. Find their weak spot and attack it to bring 'em down. If you've collected enough proof, one of your family members will give you a hand.

If you can stop the mutants from making their machine, they will do something pretty cool in honor of your devious little Bart-like mind. KRUSTY'S SUPER FUN HOUSE

Krusty's Super Fun House is the second game in Flying Edge's Genesis Simpsons series. This maze thriller takes you deep into the dermited happyland of Bart's favorite clown, Krusty. The funhouse is full of rats and you, as the green haired clown himself, have to lure the rodents into a variety of rat traps.

To find the shortest way to the trap, follow the rats.

The game features five sections of up to 14 levels each. Krusty is a psycho clown who can jump like a rabbit, kick stuff around, sling superballs and knock flying pigs from the sky with custard pies. Beat all the levels in a section and you'll get a password to let you start right up at the next section.

To Trap a Rat, You Have to Think Like One

Solving each level is simply a matter of figuring out how to get the rats into the trap. Find it and work backwards, looking for the obstacles that will prevent the little rodents from reaching their doom. Then think like a rat! Since they can only climb heights of one step, you have to find ways to get them over high spots and in some places, up to four steps above you. The only way to do it is with blocks.

Blocks are a Clown's Best Friend

You have access to two kinds of blocks: pink magic blocks and blue movable blocks. Kick the magic blocks to get extra lives, restore strength, win prizes and open secret rooms. The blue blocks can be picked up, carried and dropped to make steps. And you can do more than just stack them. Try standing on the left or right side of the block, until you are about to fall off, and drop a block. You will be able to form stairs so the rats can reach higher levels.

Momer handles the rats with his laser.

Bart helps Krusty in level 1 by smashing rat traps with the machine.

Other things you can pick up and use to move rats are blowers, pipe corners, straight pipes and glass jars. Blowers act like huge fans and can blow the rats out of your reach. You can also use blowers as steps for yourself. Corner and straight pipes hook together. Glass jars can be used as steps and can hold a rat. You can carry the jar right to a trap and break it with a kick. One less rat to worry about.

Each section has a room with a locked door. Empty the other rooms of rats and the lock will disappear. Clear this room and you get a password so you do not have to beat the section all over again.

For big fun in the Bartman's world, play Krusty's Super Fun House. ✓

The flying pig is gonna get ya if you don't watch out! Zap it three times with a custard pie and no more pig.

OVERALL FUN

Enter the nightmare world of the Atomic Runner, from Data East, where Deathstarians strike fear into the hearts of the people, murdering and kidnapping anyone who dares get in their way. You are Chetkov, a young man who must avenge the death of his father and rescue his kidnapped sister from their evil clutches.

Don't let the bright lights of the big city distract you. Your goal is to shoot at and destroy all of the enemy characters on the screen.

This fast and furious shooter is challenging from beginning to end, with seven levels of non-stop action. And we mean non-stop, since the screen continually scrolls to the right, whether you are moving or not. If the left edge of the screen catches up to you, you are pushed right along with it, most likely into the arms of some waiting Boss.

Although there is no pass word feature, nine different control styles and three levels of difficulty should accommodate almost any player's style or level of expertise. Select the number of lives per game (3 or 5), the number of Continues (3, 5, 10 or 15), and whether or not to activate two Turbo modes (Rapid Shoot and Rapid Jump.)

Practice using the Controller, as you can instantly shoot, jump or switch directions, depending on the direction you face.

Don't Let Enemies Put the Squeeze on You

During several of the stages, you'll encounter giant arms coming from the ground. These arms will reach out and squeeze you to death if you're not careful. To get by one of these arms, quickly shoot the other enemies surrounding it, then jump over it to safety.

Beating the Level Bosses

To beat the first level Boss (which looks like a giant dragon), stay near the left side of the screen and hold down the 'A' (Shoot) and 'B' (Jump) but one simultaneously. Always try to aim at the dragon, and keep moving.

You can beat the Big Gold Boss at the end of level 2 by holding down the 'A' button, jumping up and aiming for his eye. Shoot one eye then jump over his head and shoot the other eye. It is safe to jump directly on this Boss's head, but if you touch any other part of him, you're vaporized into atomic dust.

You can beat the Drop Ship Boss at the end of level three by staying on the right or left side of the screen and firing until you see smoke coming from the ship. Be sure to avoid parachuting aliens and the Boss' homing missiles.

Always aim your weapons directly at the enemy and avoid the weapons or obstacles which the enemy aims at you. Aim for this creature's head and he'll be quickly defeated.

The Mojo Idol at the end of stage four can easily be defeated if you shoot at his rocket-powered head as he jumps. (If you beat the level 2 Boss, this guy will be a snap.)

The Teradactile Boss in level five has giant wings which must be avoided. This enemy's weakness is his chest. Hit his chest several times, then move away to avoid this guy's neck. When it's safe, hit his chest a few more times, then dodge him as he tries to crush you with his body. Once again, aim for the Teradactile Boss' chest and fire multiple times.

If you reach the end of level six, beware of the Madrood Robot Boss. To defeat this dude, you'll have to shoot at his eyeball after his body comes apart. Stand to the left side of the screen (just out of his reach) and you should remain safe. You'll need to hit the eyeball at least three or four times.

With Dragon's Fury, Tengen has combined the feeling of traditional pinball with the anything goes world of video games. Dragon's Fury is a great simulation of a pinball game, but it is also a great video game. The ball moves around as though it were controlled by the laws of physics, but it also does things that no pinball machine could ever do.

Over 1,000,000 points for clearing Bonus Level 1 - simply defeat each Dragon. Each time you kill a Dragon's head with the ball, you'll earn 5,000 points.

Getting Started

The Options menu lets you configure the game parameters to your own preferences. We found it easier to control the game by using Button A to control the Left Flipper, Button

Over 6,000,000 points by clearing Bonus Level 3. Try to destroy the blue snake first (100,000 points), then aim the ball toward the monster's face.

B to control the Right Flipper and Button C to activate the Tilt, although you can set the parameters to those that best suit your style of play.

The Dragon's Fury playfield is divided into three sections. In each section, you have to battle dragons, skeletons, monsters and guards. You score points just as you do in a traditional pinball game, by hitting targets and bumpers, but mainly by keeping the ball in play. The ultimate goal is to score one billion points.

In addition to the three playfield sections, Dragon's Fury features six different bonus levels, each with a different theme. The bonus levels are available via a passage way from the upper playfield, so obviously, the upper playfield is the place to be. The best time to get the ball into the upper playfield is when you initially launch it. Use the 'B' button to launch the ball. As it travels about half-way up the pathway, press (and hold down) the 'B' button again to activate the Right Flipper (putting it in the up position). This will cause the ball to travel directly to the upper playfield.

The Upper Playfield

This area contains a large Witchcraft Symbol in the center of the screen. Note that While in the upper play area, look for the Roman numeral which is 10 and aim the ball to that pocket (notice the yellow arrow) in order to reach a Bonus Level.

each of the Roman numerals point to a trap door or entrance. When one of these numbers is lit up, aim the ball toward the corresponding door and you'll enter a bonus level.

The Middle Playfield

At the center of this section is the face of a woman, smiling sweetly. Watch closely, and you'll see her change, in small subtle steps, into a monomial demon. This is one of the things that makes Dragon's Fury more than a pinball simulation.

Try to aim the ball toward the left section of the woman's head or into the holes at the top of her helmet. Also, try to get the ball to hit any of the small red witchcraft symbols. But whatever you do, try to avoid letting the ball slip past the flippers and into the lower playfield. Once the ball reaches the lower playfield, it is easy to lose it. To constantly build up points, try to keep the ball in the upper two playfields or in the bonus levels.

The Lower Playfield

You have to keep working the flippers in the lower playfield, or you'll lose the ball.

In the lower game area, aim the ball into the center tower and a Flipper between the two bottom flippers will activate it.

Whenever this happens, you'll hear the demonic laughter of your enemies. The ball is in danger only if it is in the lower playfield, but because a ball can warp from any area to any other (including bonus levels), you should never let your guard down.

In the lower playfield, if you can send the ball into the object located in the center of the screen (just above the flippers), a block will materialize between the lower flippers, and keep you from losing the ball.

Overall, Dragon's Fury is an excellent video game adaptation of the popular arcade hit. If you enjoy the thrill and speed of traditional pinball, check out this hot new Genesis title. ✓

WHEEL OF FORTUNE

America's favorite wheel keeps on spinning! GameTek's version of Wheel of Fortune lets you experience some of the excitement of the highest rated game show on television.

The basic rules are identical to the television game show. The object of the game is to collect points as you play through three rounds. The challenge with the most points after the third round enters the Bonus Round.

To gain points you must select a letter contained in the puzzle. If not you lose control.

Three Rounds of Fun - Without Commercials

Wheel of Fortune has three main game screens. The Letter Board screen shows the puzzle, Vanna, the command line, score board, available letters, and the letter selection area. This is where you decide whether to spin, buy a vowel or solve the puzzle. You select letters using the directional arrows to point to the appropriate letter on the lower portion of the screen.

Spinning the Wheel

Selecting the spin option brings up the Wheel screen. Press the 'I' button to begin spinning the wheel and press again to stop. You can land on point values, or on bankrupt, lose a turn or free spin spaces.

Watch out, if you lose your turn you don't get any points.

When the wheel stops you can select a letter from the letter selection area. If the puzzle contains that letter, Vanna will reveal it on the puzzle board. If not, you lose a turn.

Buying Vowels & Solving Puzzles

When you have control of the wheel, you can buy a vowel, solve the puzzle or spin the wheel. If you're stumped, a vowel may help you figure out the puzzle, but it will cost you points. When a lot of points are at stake and you don't know which consonant to select, but you want to remain in control of the wheel, try purchasing a vowel.

Use the 'Solve' option to win round 1. But remember you have only 29 seconds to complete the puzzle.

When you know the answer and you have control of the wheel, you can solve the puzzle immediately and keep whatever points you have, or you can take a chance and keep spinning the wheel, adding letters you know and earning extra points. Of course, a spin could land you on a bankrupt or lose a turn space. If you decide to solve the puzzle, select the 'solve' option from the command line. You'll have 29 seconds to complete the puzzle by adding the remaining letters in order.

Winning Tips

Remember, spelling counts. Even if you know the answer, you won't get credit unless you use the correct spelling.

In the early part of each round, when only a few letters of the puzzle are showing, selecting the more common letters in the alphabet will give you a better chance of maintaining control. It might help you to know that the most common letter in English is E, followed by T, A, O, I, N, S, H, R, D, L, U.

Multiple Players

Wheel of Fortune is a one, two or three player game. If the one or two player option is selected, the remaining contestants can be computer generated, or one or two human players can compete without any computer contestants (which speeds up the overall game). Playing alone against two computer opponents becomes almost as passive as watching the game show on television.

This game is ideal for older gamers who enjoy puzzle type

Play against the computer or with one or two of your friends challenges without fast paced action or violent themes. Instead of fast reflexes, Wheel of Fortune requires good spelling skills and strategy. And pretty soon, you'll be able to take Wheel of Fortune on the road. Look for a Game Gear version in September.

Reviews-Game Gear

Fasten your seatbelt and rev up your engine. Here's a game that puts you in the pilot's seat, fingers on the buttons, blasting bogies out of the skies. It's Aerial Assault, the new Game Gear air battle from Sega.

Green power-up capsules will give you forward protection against enemy fire. But watch your top, bottom and back!

Aerial Assault puts you in control of a FREEDOM jet fighter. Your mission is to wipe out the enemy before they spread their web of terror over the entire planet. To do this you must coin plete four smaller missions, each tougher than the last. With a second cartridge and a Gear-to-Gear cable, you and a friend can take on the enemy together.

This pocket blaster is easy to play and tough to beat. You move the jet with your D button and fire with either Button 1 or Button 2. Just move and shoot. But there's much more.

Power..Power..Power!

As soon as the game begins, enemy forces come for you in waves. Shoot fast, move smart and look for enemy planes surrounded by white brackets. Blasting these bogies will give you power-ups for greater speed, extra protection or superior firepower, depending on the underlying power-up.

Speed power-ups get you moving faster; two will make you move as fast as you can. Shield power-ups protect you Shoot out the tail of that flying sub boat! Then you only have one chance to worry about from frontal enemy attacks. These do not render you invincible, however, since the stronger enemy fighters will attack you from the top, bottom or rear.

One important power-up you can't miss is the yellow star extra life. The ships carrying them usually come in just above or below the center line, forcing you to move in order to pick them up. It's worth it, even though most stars are followed by a barrage of enemies. If you get two or three stars in a row, get ready for some heavy fighting. The game is

These bombers will attack you from all directions. It's best to let them head-on as soon as they appear on the screen. Then move to avoid their diagonal shot preparing you for battle.

The most powerful weapon is the five way shot. It's tough to get because you have to collect six power-ups. But once you get it, you can cover nearly the entire screen by sitting to the left and just below the center of the screen, moving only when necessary. And once you have the five way shot, ignore any other power-ups you may find. Moving to pick them up will not make you any more powerful and could put you in a compromising position.

This heavy hitter fires bombing shots and missiles! If you save the three or five-way shot, sit on the bottom left corner of the screen and let them come in.

Ultimately, the best strategy for beating Aerial Assault is to memorize the pattern of attacks for each level, then be ready for what is about to appear on the screen. Get ready to take to the skies with Aerial Assault. ✓

Each of the five levels has you controlling a different vehicle. You start off with a motorcycle on Level 1, move to jet bike on Level 2, a Porsche 944 on Level 3, and a speedboat on Level 4. On Level 5, you are matched with your red Ferrari, and it's all systems go as you try to get your documents back.

ROLE PLAYING GAMES

Role-playing games (RPGs) are adventure games with a twist. While both games involve puzzle-solving and exploration, RPGs include the additional element of character development. Your hero in an RPG may start off relatively weak and defenseless, but by the time he gets to the final level, he will have developed into a mighty warrior. (The same goes for female heroes too, of course). As RPG players already know, you feel a much greater sense of involvement when you play an RPG.

RPGs also have considerably more depth than other game categories, which means you get a lot more gameplay. While some action or adventure titles may provide thirty or forty hours of gameplay, RPGs can keep you fascinated for fifty or a hundred hours or more.

Here are some basic strategy tips for RPG games:

1. Make Maps - It's a good idea to keep track of your travels by mapping the places you go. It's also a good idea to keep notes — you never know when something casually tossed off by a character turns out to be a valuable clue.

2. Save Often - If the game cart has a backup battery, use it often, and not just at the end of your game session. For example, it's a good idea to save your game just before you do something unusual. That way, if you should happen to meet an unlikely demise, you'll be able to restore the game to its pre-disaster state.

3. Be Ready For Anything - Make sure you have everything you need before you get into a strange situation. For example, before you enter a dark cave, make sure you are armed, and you are carrying some form of illumination.

Here are three RPG titles from Sega. If you like your adventures with an element of character-development, you'll appreciate the depth and challenge of an RPG game.

PHANTASY STAR III

GENERATIONS OF DOOM™

The Phantasy Star series is one of the most challenging line-ups of RPGs for the Genesis. To complete Phantasy Star III, you must assist three generations of characters who will ultimately explore seven different worlds and two moons.

At the start of this adventure, you're about to marry Masi. However, she is kidnapped by an evil dragon.

As the character Rhys (the Prince of Landen), you begin the game by preparing for your royal wedding with Masi, a mysterious woman who washed up on the shores of Landen. At your wedding ceremony, Masi is suddenly kidnapped. When you blow your cool, your father places you in the dungeon (where you'll find three chests filled with items). Pick up these items and wait for someone to help

Throughout this adventure, you'll be forced to enter many battles. Here are your enemies along with information to help you to battle.

While the different worlds you'll encounter cavemen. In order to enter some caverns, you'll need specific items. Some caverns are gateways to other worlds. Remember, you must always explore everything to succeed.

you escape, so you can begin searching for your fiancée.

With 300 mesetas (Landen's currency) in hand, you must arm yourself as you prepare for the long quest ahead of you. In addition to buying a weapon, you'll need a shield and several doses of Monomate (10 mesetas each) from the Equipment Shop.

There are four different endings to Phantasy Star III. To finish the game as quickly as possible, Rhys must marry Masi (as opposed to Masi). Your second character will be Nial. He should marry Alvin, so your final character will be Aron. If you purchase the Phantasy Star III Hint Book (sold separately), complete maps are provided; otherwise, it is vital that you draw your own maps.

As with many role playing adventures, your character's strength is measured in Hit Points, Technique Points and Experience Points. Since this is an extremely complex game, be sure to stop at the Inn periodically to rest your character and save your game data.

Phantasy Star III is an advanced, one player role playing game, so be prepared to think and use strategy. ♣

DRAGON CRYSTAL™

Dragon Crystal offers all of the elements of a traditional role playing game for your hand held Game Gear system.

There are many items you'll need to obtain. To pick up an item, stand over it and press Button 2. Once you have an item, you can use it, throw it, or drop it.

Food is vital for maintaining your Hit Points. You can only have 88 Food Points. When you're near your maximum, don't eat more until you need it.

After being magically transported into an unknown land, you'll have a dagger in hand and a large egg following you. Protect the egg and it will eventually hatch into a friend by dragon.

Be prepared to attack enemy frogs, strange colored blobs and other beasts in your path. Always be on the lookout for special items and pick them up. As you search your new surroundings, walk down every possible path, leaving nothing unexplored.

When an enemy approaches, the number of Hit Points you have remaining will be displayed on the screen. When your Hit Points are gone, your character dies and the game is over. Finding food and money will increase your Hit Points. Locating stronger armor will offer you added protection.

Acquire as much Gold as possible. If you don't have enough Gold when a game ends, you won't be able to continue.

The more enemies you destroy, the stronger you become.

Always look for ways to boost your Hit Points, Power, Armor Class and Wealth. In all, you must travel through thirty worlds and ultimately locate the Magic Goblet. Only then will you discover a way home.

Dragon Crystal combines action with text to create an easy to understand RPG which will provide a challenge for less experienced gamers. ✓

Shining in the Darkness™

Enter a world of strange creatures and magical powers in Shining in the Darkness. You'll get transported to The Kingdom of Thornwood and become the son of the King. Drake's most trusted knight in this Genesis RPG hit.

The map of Thornwood shows you to choose your destination. Start your quest by entering the Village (lower right corner of the map).

Your father and the King's beloved daughter, Princess Jessa, have disappeared with out a trace. The King provides you with 200 gold pieces, which you can use to purchase your initial armor, weapons and potions. You must go on a quest to find both your father and the princess.

Early in the game, visit the local merchants and shops found in the village and purchase the best armor and equipment possible with the limited funds you have available. Most importantly, be sure to purchase several sets of herbs (which will replenish your Hit Points) and keep you alive in the early stages of the game).

When your quest begins, you'll encounter many evil creatures. When you're not too outnumbered, enter into battle and defeat these creatures to boost your Experience Points and earn gold. As your Experience Points grow and you earn more gold, you can purchase better armor and weapons. Each character on your team can hold up to eight items. If a member of your party has died, their items can't be used unless they are transferred to another person or the dead person is revived by the Holy Man or the Revive spell).

During your quest, you'll meet up with your two friends Mito Brax and Pyra Myst. Keep in mind, they have magical powers which can be used to your benefit.

As a one player game, you'll see everything from a first person perspective, which puts you in the heart of the graphic portion of the action.

Shining in the Darkness is a complex 8-meg game which utilizes the best of animated graphics and text based windows. ✓

When you buy Sega's Game Gear, you'll get the world's #1 color portable video game system.

With a full color 3.2" screen, 32 blazing colors, and the hottest graphics you'll find anywhere.

GEAR.™ HOLD ON TIGHT.

As if Sonic isn't challenge enough, soon we're introducing even more hot new titles—like Batman™ Returns, Streets of Rage™, Tez-Mania™ and Shinobi II™. By Christmas, we'll offer more than 75 games in all.

So grasp your Game Gear firmly. And hold on tight.

Sega Scores Against AIDS

In Segaland, bad guys are zapped with a deft push of a button.

Unfortunately, it's not that easy in our everyday world. But at Sega, we're doing what we can to help.

This spring, we joined forces with Los Angeles radio station KISS FM to sponsor a two-day, fund-raising blow-out for the Pediatric AIDS Foundation. Together, we collected more than $235,000 to support the foundation's vital important work.

KISS hit the air waves with a 48-hour radiothon, and we wound it all up with "KISS and Unite!," an awesome, 11-hour concert featuring Richard Marx, Amy Grant, Barbara Windsor, Keith Sweat, Color Me Badd, Tony Terry, CeCe Peniston, Firehouse, The Smithereens, Jody Watley, Shalane, Kenny G, J.A. Guns, Eddie Money, PMD, Dawn, and Heavy D. and the Bays. Some of the hedgehog even put in an appearance as well, along with Tevin Campbell, Wilson Phillips, and KISS FM DJs.

"In the fight against AIDS, everyone uniting together to say 'I care' is the kind of action that makes a difference," says Elizabeth Glaser, a founder of the Pediatric AIDS Foundation.

Tom Kalinske, Sega's president, agrees. "We hope that our support will encourage others.

Life isn't all fun and games, even at Sega. That's why we want to make a difference.

Play Sega Master System games on your Game Gear.

The number of games available for the Game Gear just got bigger.

Much bigger. By hooking up the Master Gear Converter to your Game Gear, you can play most Master System games on the go. Now you can enjoy games like Michael Jackson's Moonwalker™, Strider™, Psycho Fox™ and dozens more, anytime, anywhere.

If the concept is simple, so is the execution. All you have to do is slip the Master Gear Converter into the Game Gear cartridge slot and tighten down the mounting screw. If the Master Gear Converter is properly installed, the mounting screw lines up with the hole in the back of the Game Gear. To play a Master System game, just slip the cart into the Master Gear Converter, turn on the Game Gear and you're ready to go.

Because the Master Gear Converter doesn't rely on electronics, you should have very few compatibility problems.

Not all Master System titles are ideal for conversion to Game Gear, however. Because of the size of the Game Gear's screen, you may find small text difficult to read, and small fast-moving objects, like bullets, could appear slightly blurred.

The Master Gear Converter has a suggested retail price of $19.95, and is available direct from Sega, or from authorized Sega dealers. ▼

THE GENESIS

Bulls vs. Lakers raises pro basketball to new heights. With twice as many teams: all 16 of the 1991 NBA playoff contenders plus both All-Star squads. More signature moves and more tasty dunks than a donut shop. Better defensive control and shot blocking. Even the exclusive EASN "T" Meter™ to help you sink those critical free throws.

And, of course, you get to play with the best guys ever to lace up a pair of hightops. High altitude acrobats like Jordan, Drexler, Kemp, and Malone. Dead-eye shooters like Bird and Mullin. Rebounding monsters like Barkley and Hakeem.

Use the EASN "T" Meter to control the power and accuracy of live throws. Sink your shots or sink your team.

A group of basketball players in yellow and red uniforms standing on a court. The players are in various poses, some looking towards the camera and others looking away. The background is a blurred crowd of spectators.

As you'd expect, EASN covers every bounce of the ball. Capturing every brick that clangs off the rim, every squeal of $159 sneakers on hardwood.
